

Introducing Michael Bird Primary and Secondary History

Michael Bird is a Senior Lecturer at the University of Chester, and Head of the Initial Teacher Education Department. He is a passionate historian, author, researcher and teacher and helped to inaugurate the History PGCE at the University in 2014. He is also a regular contributor to the Historical Association, co-founder of the website www.teacherlearning.org, experienced consultant, external examiner and a qualified tourist guide. He is a great believer in teachers' becoming authorities in their own practice and a strong advocate for new and innovative models of teacher learning and development.
